

CATEGORY: Client Communications

Sample #4

Communications via E-mail. There are privacy risks associated with e-mail communications. The firm cannot guarantee the security and confidentiality of such communication and will not be responsible for messages that are not received or delivered due to technical failure. Further, you should not forward e-mails sent to or received from the firm as this may compromise the attorney-client privilege. By signing below you acknowledge the risks of e-mail communications and consent to communicate with attorneys and staff at the firm via e-mail.