Please provide a substantive review of this software below.

This is a good tool for Mac users of Word to automate simple documents like memos where it helps to have a drop-down list of authors or where you need the subject to appear multiple times. Customer service is great. The owner himself responds to emails and is interested in users' experiences. It does require learning the particular syntax for the types of choices but there's a helpful tutorial built in that you can return to if you get rusty.
